DETAILED ACTION

Claims 6 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

The claim maintaining the water vapor separate from the separated gases to prevent dilution of the water vapor with the separated gas in claim 6 "is nowhere in the specification.

There are no means and process steps disclosed or provided such that the above maintaining step is carried-out. If support can be pointed- out, at least the specification is objected to as failing to provide proper antecedent basis because the above subject matter matter is not positively recited in the specification.

The same rejection or oobjection holds true for the claimed "removal of the atmospheric gases separated from the water droplet during spraying before the water droplets enter the evaporating channels such that the product vapor has a low concentration of atmospheric gases than the water" in claim 8.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

⁽a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 2, 4, 11-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over El-Allawy or Blangetti et al '998.

The above references are applied for the same combined reasons s set forth at pages 3-4 of the previous Office action.

Claims 3, 5-7, 9 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hohmann et al or Ryham.

Hohmann et al or Ryham is applied for the same reason as set forth at page 4 of the previous office action.

Applicant's arguments filed January 16, 2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant's argument such as: in Blangetti, "The spray device 24 is not situated at and does not spray the falling film tube inlets.... Rather, the spray device is disposed above a packed column 23" is not considered well-taken.

However, Blangetti suggests in col. 6, lines 15-17, that the substitution of the packed column in Fig. 2 by a falling film deaerator would also be a variant according to the invention.

Furthermore, Hohmann or Ryham is not applied for reasons as argued, i.e., "removing dissolved gases from the liquid..". Hohmann or Ryham was cited to show that the "..trough having a perforated bottom and lying above said tubes or channel arrangement is not an unobvious subject matter nor is it evidence of criticality in the art.

Moreover, applicant's argument that "..El-Allawy is not directed to falling film evaporators, does not recognize the dissolved atmospheric gas problem, and provides no solution to this problem..... El-Allawy is not analogous prior art" is not persuasive of patentability.

However, El-Allawy's disclosures at col. 3, lines 25-28 of "the waters in the fine stream are distributed evenly as a thin film on the outside of the evaporation pipe of heat exchanger 16 where they are heated to form vapors", and at col. 5, line 3,7 of a "spray film evaporator" would at least be suggestives of the above argued falling film evaporator or evaporation since they fall within the generic film type evaporator or evaporation.

Contrary to applicant's assertion, the fact that El-Allawy provides a degasser in its system, and provides for the removal of volatile components including oxygen and gaseous hydrocarbons materials in its system would presuppose that El-Allawy recognizes the problems posed by these materials. See e.g., col. 3, lines 8-16.

Thus, in the absence of anything which may be "new" or unexpected result", a prima facie case of obviousness has been established by the art and has not been rebutted.

Unexpected results must be established by factual evidence. Mere arguments or conclusory statements in the specification, appellants' amendments, or the Brief do not suffice.
